

Christos Richards
Partner & CEO, Levin & Company

Christos Richards, CEO of Levin & Company, has twenty-eight years dedicated to executive recruitment, for a broad range of clients in medicine, science and technology. Beginning in 1982 serving a diversified base of high technology companies, his practice evolved into Life Sciences in 1989, initially serving environmental consulting firms.

Christos very shortly thereafter initiated a focus in Biotechnology and Biomedical Devices, and has now specialized in Life Sciences for the past sixteen years.

- Founding and managing an executive search firm, which served both domestic and international clientele for over ten years.
- Managing the San Diego search practice for a major multinational executive search firm and serving as their North American High Technology Practice Team Leader.
- Creating and trademarking the brand name Nexium®.

With an active Practice recruiting Board Members, CEO's, a C-Suite Executives Christos has completed well over 150 senior level engagements over the past decade. He has an undergraduate degree completed abroad, and Christos is fluent in German and Swiss German, with an appreciation for the dynamics of recruiting for international companies. He is an active member of LAVA (the Los Angeles Venture Association), and a member of the Leader's Steering Committee for the American Diabetes Association in San Francisco.